The recipe for success in our annual Creative Arts Competition is a simple one.

- Combine creative energy with vision.
- Add a generous helping of technical ability.
- Fold in a decent amount of angst.
- Sift in large amounts of support from friends and family (if unavailable, substitute ice cream).

Then combine the dry ingredients:

- Your law practice that eats up too much time
- The nagging sense that time spent on art is a luxury
- All those mundane details of daily life

Simmer at a low boil for a really long time. Remove from the heat, and stop stirring, already!

Given the recipe's challenges, it's a surprise any art gets done at all. Congratulations to all those who prevailed in our competition.
